THE NEWS IN BRIEF. LIV. CONGRESS.

(First Session.) THE senate was not in session on the 7th..... In the house several bills were passed, among them senate bill authorizing the secretary the treasury to distribute the diplomas and als awarded exhibitors at the World's Coambian exposition. Senate amendments to the agricultural appropriation bill, with two exceptions, were non-concurred in. The house went into committee of the whole for the fur-ther consideration of the post office appropria-tion bill. General debate lasted an hour, during which several efforts were made, unavailingly, to increase the compensation of fourth-class postmasters. In the senate, on the 9th, the Cuban bel-Higerency resolution, as reported from the con-ference committee, was antagonized by Mr. Hale (Ma.) in a two hours' speech of great force and earnestness, and then gave way to the report of the committee on privileges and elections to the effect that Mr. Dupont is en-titled to the vacant seat in the senate from the state of Delaware...... In the house a number of bills of minor importance were passed by unanimous consent, when, under the rules, District of Columbia business was taken up, and several local measures were disposed of. The remainder of the session was devoted to consideration, in committee of the whole, of the post office appropriation bill.

In the senate, on the 10th, Spanish Minister De Lome was severely criticised for his at-tacks upon the United States senate through the public press. Mr. Hoar offered a resolution to postpone the further consideration of the conference report on the Cuban resolution until the 6th of April, and to direct the committee on foreign relations to report in the meantime the facts on which the resolution was justified. The rest of the day's session was given to the Delaware election case....In the house consideration of the post office appropriation bill occupied almost the entire session. Only two or three miscellaneous matters were disposed of, mostly bills for the re-

In the senate, on the 11th, Mr. Hoar's resolution to postpone the conference report on the Cuban concurrent resolutions until April 6, was taken up, and after a speech by Mr. Hoar in support of it, lost its place in the morning hour and went to the calendar. Mr. Turple concluded his three-days speech against the claim of Mr. Dupont to a seat in the senate from the state of Delaware ..... In the house the post office appropriation bill was finally disposed of and sent to the senate.

In the senate, on the 12th, two speeches were made against the adoption of the conference report on the Cuban resolutions, the principal one by Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.). while the action of the foreign relations committee and the sen-ate conferees was defended by Senator Sherman. Mr. Pritchard (N. C.) spoke in support of Mr. Dupont's claim to a seat in the senate. A number of bills were taken from the calendar and passed ..... In the house the entire day's session was spent in consideration of contested-election cases. That of Dudley H. Coleman against Charles F. Buck, from the Second Louisiana district, was, without de-bate, decided in favor of the sitting member. Seven hours' debate was devoted to the Al-drich-Robbins case, from the Fourth Alabama district, without action being taken thereon.

Funeral Cortege.

Death resulted from a cold which developed into pleurlay and pneumonia. Mr. Filley remained devoted at her bedside during her brief illness, always hoping for the best. But when death came the man of iron gave way, and the parting from her who had been a tender wife and helpmate for more than forty years seemed to be more than he could bear.

Mrs. Filley was a woman of many excellent qualities. She was deminded in appearance, with wavy, snow-white hair and a face full of intelligence. In a quiet way she was a reformer and a philanthropist, and many of the charities she dispensed will never be known to the public. She never permitted wine or intoxicating liquors to be served to her husband's guests, but whatever the time, or however great the number of callers might be, she was always ready with coffee and other light refreshments.

she was always ready with codec and other light refreshments.

She read widely, and was a charming conversationalist. A little story which she wrote for her Sunday-school class at Christ Church cathedral, St. Louis, has recently been published. It is entitled "The Chapel of the Infant Jesus; or, What Nobody Ever Told Me." Mrs. Filley was born in Lansingburg, N. Y., in 1830, and was a Miss Anna Elizabeth Adams. She was of Scotch and Knickerbocker Dutch ancestry, and was connected with the Adams family, so prominently identified with the political and educational affairs of New England

Average premium per $1,000, 1893, $12.50. Average premium per $1,000, 1894, $14.09. Average premium per $1,000, 1895, $13.49. Alleged Gold Discovery.

Excitement prevails in the northwest corner of Ray county over the scovery of what is gold-bearing quartz. The find was made on Rocky Ford creek.

Samples of the ore taken from a prospect hole were sent to an assayer at Salt Lake City, Utah, and his report has been received, showing that the ore would run $120 in free gold to the ton. A company was at once organized, with ample capital to operate a mine and a 10-stamp mill, and operations will be commenced at once. Quite a number of experienced miners from Colorado are on the ground, and pronounce the ore taken from a number of prospect holes as being rich in both gold and silver. Zinc has also been found in the new diggings. Rocky fork is in a wild and almost inaccessible section, 12 miles from Richmond and four miles from the St. Joseph branch of the Santa Fe railway. Old settlers say that the Indians always claimed that gold existed in the hills alon; the creek, and frequently showed samples taken

Two Children Terribly Burned. Two children of William Fortny, a Boone county farmer, were terribly burned the other day. Or e of them has since died, but it is believed the other will recover. Fortny and his wife, who live four miles southeast of Columbia, left the children in the house in charge of a halfgrown boy while they were attending to some adjoining room, and while gone one of the chil-dren fell into the fire. The other child endeav-ored to pull her from the flames, and the cloth-ing of both became ignited. When their par-ents, attracted by their acreams, reached them they were both terribly burned.

A Handsome Structure. The corner-stone of the new Lindell Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, St. Louis, was laid the other day. The church is to be of stone, and will cost 185,000. The handsome $35,000 chapel which now stands on the lot will be used for Sundayschool and other purposes, and the new build-ing is to furnish a spacious auditorium. There will be no delay in its erection, as the money necessary has been subscribed.

Bitten by a Rabid Dog.

Ira Harrin, who lives ten miles southeast of Nevada, took his ten-yearold son to that city for treatment by a madstone. The boy was bitten several days before by a dog, which has since died of hydrophobia. Sam Beasley, of the same neighborhood, was bitten on the hand by the dog.

A rarer scene, more mediæval in some respects, more unworldly in others, has not been witnessed since the cold, clear December morning four years ago, when, in the same place, the same man was again the central figure of a magnificent ceremonial.

There has been nothing like it for American eyes in many days, and those who were present will loug remember the quaint antiphonal chants, rising from the throats of 300 priests, the minor modulations of the organ, the inspiring strains of solo passages in mediaval hymns like the "Dies the Post-Dispatch says that with the tolling of church bells, sad strains of celebrant and behind ever-rising clouds of sweet-scented incense an ever-changing scene formed by the black-robed priests, the purple-robed prelates, and the scarlet trappings of the cardinal and his attendant.

To view this spectacle was gathered an audience that included the Catholic population of St. Louis, from the richest to the poorest. Not a tithe of those who craved admission could gain entrance, and without the church a mob half reverent, half curious, surged up against the gates of the c athedral and were swept back again by the po-lice. All morning it was a battle between the police and the people, for those who came for a last glimpse of all that was mortal of the dead archbishop would not leave until the final

The funeral oration was delivered by Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, who was formerly coadjutor to the dead prelate, and who is one of the foremost pupil orators of the Roman Catholic church. Archbishop Kain was the celebrant.

The ceremony of absolution was performed by Cardinal Gibbons, Arch-bishop Elder of Cincinnati, Archbishop Feehan of Chicago, Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia and Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul.

Archbishop Ryan was at his best, and though advancing age has stolen some of the mellow sweetness from his tones, he has all the fire and grace of older days. He spoke from his heart.

All that his learning could sugges and his deep friendship inspire was ex

It was corted to Calvary cemetery by a deil of mounted police and the St. Louis niversity cadets, and its progres rough the city was marked by the verential attitude of the thousands ho lined the streets.

DUN'S COMMERCIAL REVIEW

New York, March 14.-R. G. Dun &

Co. say to-day:
Fallures for the week have been 300 in the United States, against 366 last year, and 60 in Canada, against 57 last

Waiting is still the rule. Large hope, but little actual business, ex-plains the strength of some markets and the weakness of others. Thus far there is a decided increase in the de-mand for boots and shoes, secured by considerable concessions in prices, but in other branches of business conces-sions are made in vain, or are not made.

Meanwhile, it is encouraging to know that one of the most important business interests has realized definite improvement. The insurance com-panies, of which returns are given in detail this week, show a larger busi-ness and larger income than ever be-fore, and also a most remarkable soundness of mortgage loans and other investments.

As prices about February 21 were, on the whole, the lowest ever known in the whole, the lowest ever known in this country, considerable space is given this week to comparison of quotations in the most important branches of manufacture, which show the extent of reaction since the rise last fall. It is especially noteworthy that prices of materials have varied quite differently from from prices of manufactured products. Thus cotton is 27.9 per cent. higher than a year ago, but cotton goods average only 10.7 per but cotton goods average only 10.7 per cent. Wool is but 4.3 per cent. higher than a year ago, but woolen goods are on the whole about four per cent. lower. Pig iron is only 17 per cent. higher than a year ago, while finished products of iron and steel average 45 per cent. higher. Boots and shoes are practically not higher than a year ago, while leather has risen 11.5 per cent., and hides at the moment are only 2.2

per cent higher. These comparisons are important be-cause they disclose something of the grave dislocation of prices which inadequate consumption and combina-tions have produced.

Cotton goods sell but slowly, notwithstanding recent reductions price, and the enormous accumulation of unsold stocks causes apprehension in many quarters.

In woolens the demand is very largely for low-grade goods, and flerce competition affects the prices of the better grades materially. In clay worsteds the manufacture has been so far overdone that stoppage of some most important works is considered not improbable. Sales of wool at the three chief markets are the smallest in five years. Prices are still maintained with decrease in Australian supplies. The market for wheat is weaker, with no better reason than the government report of wheat in farmer's hands, which is altogether out of keeping with the government estimate a year ago, and it is probable more nearly correct. Western receipts still exceed last year, and for two weeks have been 4,567,392 bushels, against 3,636,715 last year, while the Atlantic exports, flour included, this week a little smaller than a year ago, have been for two weeks 2,921,097 bushels, against 3,510,152 last year. Corn is a shade firmer without apparent reason, and cotton gained a sixteenth, although the prospect of yield this year is at least as good as it has been at any time.
